

Team Reflection

Working on this project with Xianjing Huang and Yijia Zhao has been an incredibly rewarding experience. Both team members brought their unique strengths, dedication, and collaborative spirit to the table, which made the entire process smooth, efficient, and enjoyable. Through this journey, I've learned not only technical skills but also valuable lessons about teamwork and communication. Their contributions were crucial to our success, and I am grateful for the opportunity to work with such talented individuals.

Xianjing Huang

(+) Her extensive contributions to AWS deployment, load testing, and other crucial aspects of the project ensured that everything ran smoothly and efficiently. She approaches tasks with remarkable focus and precision, demonstrating an incredible ability to adapt to new challenges and find innovative solutions.

(+) She fosters collaboration by ensuring that every team member feels heard and valued, making her a key communicator within the group. Her proactive attitude and readiness to take on responsibilities inspire everyone around her.

(-) Sometimes, Xianjing takes on too much work herself. Delegating more tasks to others would not only lighten her load but also give her more time to rest and recharge.

Yijia Zhao

(+) Yijia is a highly dependable and motivated team member who consistently brings enthusiasm and dedication to the project. Her curiosity and eagerness to learn stand out, as she is always willing to explore new ideas and tools, which adds great value to the team's progress. Yijia's proactive approach to improving her skills and tackling challenges is truly commendable.

(-) One small area for improvement would be for Yijia to share her thoughts more openly during discussions. Her insights are valuable, and being slightly more vocal could amplify her already significant contributions.
